(As far as the secondary how strong have you been this season? Jarvis (Landry) barely gets anything today. Last week you guys did great against DeAndre (Hopkins). Can you just talk about how strong you have been this year?) – “We’re just trying to work together and be able to make plays. This week Brice (McCain) really handled the challenge. He played out here in Miami last year so he knew Jarvis (Landry). I’m sure they had quite the battles in practice. Him being more of a slot receiver, Brice really stepped up, did a really good job on him today. Just overall as a secondary, we try to know who can hurt us and what type of situation. We try to go just out there and make plays.”

(When you see Ryan Tannehill ineffective – he’s just sitting back in the pocket, holding the ball and doesn’t have anybody to throw it to and keeps dumping it off to these running backs – how big was that for you guys in the long run today that he didn’t have his best weapons available, really?) – “It’s huge. A testament to our d-line too. They were getting after him, coming up with sacks. As a quarterback, that play is in your mind. When you know those guys are coming hard off the edges, coming up the middle, you know you have to get rid of the ball quick and that you can’t hold onto it. (It was) a total team effort on defense, especially.”

(How do you simulate a guy like Jarvis (Landry) in practice? How do you prepare yourself for his skillset specifically?) – “You go out there, you obviously go over the routes with the receivers that we compete against in practice every day. When it comes to Sunday, I say week in and week out, you just go out there and compete – last week getting a chance to go against DeAndre Hopkins, this week getting a chance to go against Jarvis Landry. When you know the quarterback is going to get the ball to a guy and he is a talented receiver, all you can do is go out there, play your technique, and compete to try to make as many plays as you can against him.”
